

Gnome Product Description

Earth dweller. Brownie. Pixie. Sprite. Leprechaun.

All names for Gnomes!

According to legend, gnomes live underground to protect the nearby plant life and, maybe, some treasure. But, these little gnomes are willing to come to the surface and show off their festive costumes!

Valentine's Day, Christmas, St. Patrick's Day and other holidays are all gnome favorites, as you can tell from their bright and colorful clothing. Even their everyday wear is a treat to see.

Gnomes are said to bring good luck so don't hesitate to bring one (or two!) of these little guys into your home. After all, everyone can use a little bit of gnomish good luck in their lives!

Meet Banxi! All dressed up and ready for Valentine's Day, this little guy can't wait to brighten your day.

Flimp came out from underground and was excited to see all the snow! First thing he did was grab his boots, his warm coat and, of course, his sled. Flimp is going to have some fun!

Fenthwick and Helga are off to have a fun-filled day of skiing and playing in the snow. There's nothing better than having time to enjoy each other's company!

Krankle is getting ready to look for more gems. With his little bucket, he'll be able to move a lot of dirt to unearth all the treasure he knows he'll find!
